A History of the Growth and Development of the Primary Association of the LDS Church to 1928

Conrad A. Harward, Brigham Young University - Provo

Abstract

The Primary Association of the LDS Church is an organization that provides day religious training of children four to twelve years of age. This study attempts to determine what factors led to the birth of the movement, how it developed, what its main features were, what some of the major problems were and how they were solved, who some of the prominent people were and what were some of its major accomplishments.

Results of the study have shown that the Primary became a major activity for many young children of the Church. It has developed into a major activity for young boys for priesthood ordination and in helping young girls to assume their roles as wives and mothers.
