Abstract

The following collection deals with autobiographical v this thesis was to present poems in which spoke to a various circumstances such as age, location, and expe thread of girlhood lends itself as a conceptual framew themselves vary in style. They move between elemen narrative, lyricism, meditation, and some code-switching, letting the poems happen upon recognition and shaping memorable content rather than by trying to adhere to one particular style or form allowed me ample material for my thesis. The title of this collection, This Way Girl Comes Bearing Gifts, is the way I have been able to bear the weight of memories and experiences intended to show a way in which lived and living girls, something wrong or wronged, can still be full-bodied and connected to the title at age twenty-six is one where prolonged girlhood have influenced the course of my poetry.
