Elizabeth A. Perkins. Border Life: Experience and Memory in the Revolutionary Ohio Valley. Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 1998. Pp. 253. Appendices. Index. Bibliography. Cloth, $45.00; paper, $17.95. Elizabeth Perkins analyzes a treasure trove of underused primary sources in Border Life, a most interesting and useful history of the eighteenth-century Ohio Valley. Perkins combed through volumes of oral interviews that Presbyterian minister John Dabney Shane conducted in the 1840s with early settlers in Ohio and Kentucky, and her sophisticated analysis of the interviews produces a fresh interpretation of the frontier experience. The first chapter introduces Shane and describes his...
