Abstract:

This paper approaches personal mastery as a quest for finding authenticity, meaning, and fulfillment in one's life personal and professional realm. It reviews the practical strategies to harness the creative energies that lie dormant and builds on the work of Abraham Maslow, Victor Frankl, Peter Senge, Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi, Steven Covey, and illuminating the concept of personal mastery and invites the reader to live from what has been called "the highest" and to develop and refine personal vision, values, and meaning. Finally, it links personal mastery to effective leadership and our leadership style is an extension of who we are.
