Abstract

Creative teaching is an art form - aesthetic, intuitive and expressive. The recent proliferation of new educational technologies, combined with the growing demand for a wider range of knowledge among children mean that there is an even greater need for creative teaching than before the National Curriculum was introduced.

This book addresses this need by:

- * exploring the features of creative teaching with a focus on the day to day practice of primary teachers
- * showing how teachers use emotion, create atmosphere and stimulate imagination to enhance their teaching
- * examining the ways in which teachers have managed the National Curriculum and developed a new professional response to government pressures

This book is a sequel to Creative Teachers in Primary Schools (Open University Press 1995) and builds upon this book's insights into the art of teaching.
