Abstract: Te ao Maori is about keeping our traditional Maori stories alive in our current world, respecting Maori tikanga (customs, values, protocols) and treasuring the use of te reo Maori. It is important to honour the Tiriti o Waitangi as the strongest rationale and framework for guiding our cultural responsibility to Maori (Ministry of Education, 2011). In this paper, I discuss our University of Otago College of Education (UOCE) students' attempts to integrate te ao Maori (the world of Maori) into quality physical education for tamariki (children).
