Abstract: Te ao Māori is about keeping our traditional Māori stories alive in our current world, respecting Māori tikanga (customs, values, protocols) and treasuring the use of te reo Māori. It is important to honour the Tiriti o Waitangi as the strongest rationale and framework for guiding our cultural responsibility to Maori (Ministry of Education, 2011). In this paper, I discuss our University of Otago College of Education (UOCE) students' attempts to integrate te ao Maori (the world of Maori) into quality physical education for tamariki (children).
