Abstract : The present book is briefly noticed because of the relation of game and game extermination to tsetse flies. The volume consists of a relatively long introduction which explains how the information has been collected and points out a great variety of factors which have caused the disappearance or increasing disappearance of many species of mammal in the Old World. It contains a chronological list showing approximate dates (generally to a half-century) of disappearance for each c separately.

The greater part of the book consists of an account of many species arrang Orders. Some of these species have disappeared or are in grave danger of some of them, as it appears to us, are not at the moment greatly reduced c danger list. P. A. Buxton.
