Meniscus is a literary journal, published and supported by the Australasian Association of Writing Programs with editors from the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand. The title of the journal was the result of a visit made by two of the editors to the National Gallery of Australia in Canberra, where James Turrell’s extraordinary installation, “Within without” (2010), led them to think about how surfaces, curves, tension and openness interact. In particular, they were struck by the way in which the surface of the water features, and the uncertainty of the water’s containment, seems to analogise the excitement and anxiety inherent in creative practice, and the delicate balance between possibility and impossibility that is found in much good writing.
sustenance. First prize is awarded to Shari Kocher for her poem, “The Glimpse.” It moves with great economy from a sense of struggle to an embrace of the world, and with sensuous delight. Its increasingly richly textured language is precise while retaining a sense of the elusive. Second, the AAWP’s Emerging Writers Prize, administered by Julia Prendergast, who writes: The Australasian Association of Writing Programs (AAWP) together with the Ubud Writers and Readers Festival (UWRF) offers a prize for Emerging Writers of prose or poetry. The 2016 competition theme was “Tat Tvam Asi” which means “I am you, you are me.” The nuanced and innovative responses to the theme made the judges’ task extremely difficult. The overall quality of submissions was overwhelming. The AAWP would like to offer warm wishes to all writers for diverse and original contributions. ... Gail Pittaway for Meniscus editors
