Saying prayers at the bottom of the sea

Signals

Issue 108 (2014)

Gapps, Stephen

Abstract: The role and experiences of sailors during World War I have often been overshadowed by stories of Anzacs at Gallipoli or Diggers on the Western Front. The museum's new exhibition War at Sea - The Navy in WWI focuses on personal accounts of action on and below the waves during the Great War. Through the dramatic diary entries of one of its crew, curator Dr Stephen Gapps recounts the dangerous mission of Royal Australian Navy submarine AE2.
