Abstract:

Many laymen write to the Indiana Geological Survey and ask: "Please send me books ar on fossils and where they can be found." Some write on tablet paper in the labored fift hand of a school child; others write on linen in the neatly feminine and classic lines surely those of a school teacher; still others type on expensive letterheads that st nature of their professions. This circular is written for all of them but especially for th school age. It is for school teachers, scoutmasters, parents, and other counselors of

It is a beginner's guide to fossils, most useful to collectors in Indiana. It is for the everywhere who do not write to me, but who seek a hobby, avocation, or beginning knowledge to a profession. It is for all who are interested and seek, through fossils, one means Truth.
